

Many finance professionals think that age-old problems are just part of the job.

Poor compliance with spend policy

Lack of visibility and inaccurate reporting

Hours (or days!) of tedious manual work

But they don't have to be.

Most purchasing software is designed for accountants. But in today's world employees do most of the purchasing, so it's no wonder those age-old problems persist even after you upgrade your software.

Teampay is the only solution that's designed with your entire company in mind, eliminating those problems for good. Teampay makes it easy for employees to follow the correct purchasing process, driving compliance through the roof and creating the visibility your team needs without the slow, painful purchasing processes they don't.

As the providers of capital and resources, we wanted to provide a fast spending process to the organization while creating accountability and treating people as adults so they can make decisions.

– John Chard,
VP of Finance at Consensus

With Teampay you'll have...

0 unauthorized purchases

days off your month-end close

0 approval in 20 minutes or less

0

expense reports to review and correct later

100% of spend on a single platform

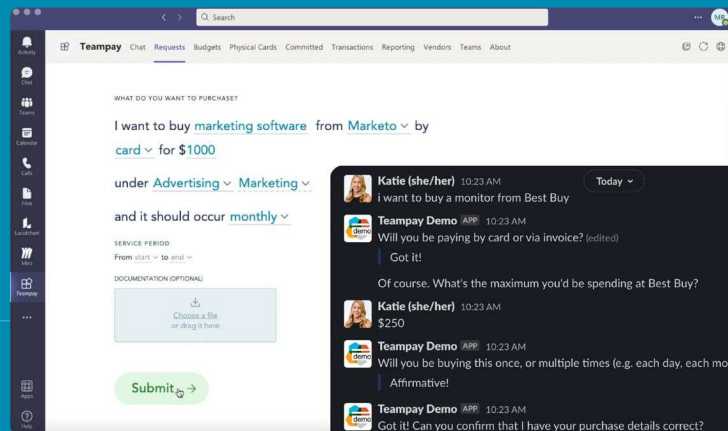

For every purchase, no matter how it's paid, employees just go to Teampay.

And you'll capture all spend in one place without even having to try.

Making a purchase is as easy as having a conversation.

The easy-to-use interface lives right in your chat tools and guides employees through each purchase from start to finish. No training sessions or handholding required.
